I. Summary:

This bill reenacts the public records exemption provided for information concerning medical facilities and laboratories which is maintained by the Department of Health (DOH) as part of the state's plan to defend against terrorism. The bill provides for the exemption of any information identifying or describing the name, location, pharmaceutical cache, contents, capacity, equipment, physical features, or capabilities of individual medical facilities, storage facilities, or laboratories established, maintained, or regulated by DOH. The bill deletes the provision that repeals the exemption.

This bill reenacts and amends s. 381.95, F.S.

II. Present Situation:

Public Records

Florida has a long history of providing public access to the records and meetings of governmental and other public entities. The Florida Legislature enacted the first law affording access to public records in 1909. In 1992, Floridians voted to adopt an amendment to the Florida Constitution that raised the statutory right of public access to public records to a constitutional level.

The Public Records Law, ch. 119, F.S., specifies the conditions under which public access must be provided to governmental records. While the State Constitution provides that records are to be open to the public, it also provides that the Legislature may create exemptions to these requirements by general law if a public need exists and certain procedural requirements are met. Article I, s. 24, of the Florida Constitution, governs the creation and expansion of exemptions to provide, in effect, that any legislation that creates a new exemption or that substantially amends an existing exemption must also contain a statement of the public necessity that justifies the exemption. Article I, s. 24, of the Florida Constitution, provides that any bill that contains an exemption may not contain other substantive provisions, although it may contain multiple exemptions.

Open Government Sunset Review Act

The Open Government Sunset Review Act provides for the repeal and prior review of any public records or meetings exemptions that are created or substantially amended in 1996 and subsequently.<sup>1</sup> The chapter defines the term “substantial amendment” for purposes of triggering a repeal and prior review of an exemption to include an amendment that expands the scope of the exemption to include more records or information or to include meetings as well as records. The law clarifies that an exemption is not substantially amended if an amendment limits or narrows the scope of an existing exemption. The law was amended by ch. 2005-251, Laws of Florida, to modify the criteria under the Open Government Sunset Review Act so that consideration will be given to reducing the number of exemptions by creating a uniform exemption during the review of an exemption subject to sunset.

Under the Open Government Sunset Review Act, an exemption may be created or maintained only if it serves an identifiable public purpose. An identifiable public purpose is served if the exemption:

- Allows the state or its political subdivisions to effectively and efficiently administer a governmental program, the administration of which would be significantly impaired without the exemption;
- Protects information of a sensitive personal nature concerning individuals, the release of which information would be defamatory to such individuals or cause unwarranted damage to the good name or reputation of such individuals or would jeopardize the safety of such individuals; or
- Protects information of a confidential nature concerning entities, including, but not limited to, a formula, pattern, device, combination of devices, or compilation of information which is used to protect or further a business advantage over those who do not know or use it, the disclosure of which information would injure the affected entity in the marketplace.

Section 119.15(6)(a), F.S., requires, as part of the review process, the consideration of the following questions:

- What specific records or meetings are affected by the exemption?
- Whom does the exemption uniquely affect, as opposed to the general public?
- What is the identifiable public purpose or goal of the exemption?
- Can the information contained in the records or discussed in the meeting be readily obtained by alternative means? If so, how?
- Is the record or meeting protected by another exemption?

- Are there multiple exemptions for the same type of record or meeting that it would be appropriate to merge?

Further, the exemption must be no broader than is necessary to meet the public purpose it serves. In addition, the Legislature must find that the purpose is sufficiently compelling to override the strong public policy of open government and cannot be accomplished without the exemption.

Under s. 119.15(8), F.S., notwithstanding s. 768.28, F.S., or any other law, neither the state or its political subdivisions nor any other public body shall be made party to any suit in any court or incur any liability for the repeal or revival and reenactment of an exemption under the section. The failure of the Legislature to comply strictly with the section does not invalidate an otherwise valid reenactment. Further, one session of the Legislature may not bind a future Legislature. As a result, a new session of the Legislature could maintain an exemption that does not meet the standards set forth in the Open Government Sunset Review Act.

2001 Legislative Findings

In creating s. 381.95, F.S., the Legislature found that there was a public necessity to exempt medical facility information because information identifying or describing the name, location, pharmaceutical cache, contents, capacity, equipment, physical features, or capabilities of individual medical facilities, storage facilities, or laboratories established, maintained or regulated by DOH as part of the state's plan to defend its residents against future acts of terrorism is information that could be used by terrorists in planning acts of terrorism.<sup>2</sup> The findings further stated that if terrorists were able to discover this information used to defend the State of Florida and its residents and visitors against an act of terrorism, the terrorists could use it to craft a terrorist act to which the State of Florida may not be as well prepared to respond. This information could be used to increase the number of people injured or killed in a terrorist act. Although some skill would be required to use such information to further an act of terrorism, ample evidence of the capabilities of terrorists to conduct complicated acts of terrorism exist.

Senate Interim Project Report 2006-212

The Senate Domestic Security Committee, in its review of Senate Interim Project Report 2006-212, accepted the recommendation that the exemption provided for medical facilities information continues to be sufficiently compelling to override the strong public policy of open government. International terrorists continue to demonstrate the ability to plan and carry out sophisticated acts of terrorism. Their capability appears to be no less today than at the time of the Legislature's original findings in 2001.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill reenacts the public records exemption provided for information concerning medical facilities and laboratories, which is maintained by DOH as part of the state's plan to defend against terrorism. The bill provides for the exemption of any information identifying or describing the name, location, pharmaceutical cache, contents, capacity, equipment, physical features, or capabilities of individual medical facilities, storage facilities, or laboratories established, maintained, or regulated by DOH.

The bill continues the current statutory provision that the Governor's certification of the sufficiency of medical facility and related information covered by the exemption is a public record. Further, the bill continues to allow custodial agency disclosure of exempt information to another state or federal agency in order to prevent, detect, guard against, respond to, investigate, or manage the consequences of any attempted or actual act of terrorism or to prosecute those responsible for such attempts or acts. Such information retains its exempt status while in the custody of the receiving agency.

This bill reenacts and saves s. 381.95, F.S., from repeal under the Open Government Sunset Act and amends the section by deleting the provision that repeals the exemption.

This bill provides for an effective date of October 1, 2006.
